Appeal from the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Idaho

Honorable Jim D. Pappas, Bankruptcy Judge, Presiding

Before: MONTALI, DUNN and HOLLOWELL, Bankruptcy Judges.

¹This disposition is not appropriate for publication.
Although it may be cited for whatever persuasive value it may have (see Fed. R. App. P. 32.1), it has no precedential value.
See 9th Cir. BAP Rule 8013-1.

1 In 2007, the panel affirmed a judgment of the bankruptcy
2 court issued after a five-day trial in an adversary proceeding.
3 In September 2008, certain plaintiffs in the adversary proceeding 4 filed a "Demand for Retrial and Motion to Dismiss Bankruptcy" in 5 both the adversary proceeding and in the debtors' main case. The 6 bankruptcy court denied the requested relief. We AFFIRM.

7 I. FACTS

8 On November 7, 2003, Greg and Diana Thomason ("Debtors") 9 filed a chapter 13² case, which was converted to chapter 7 on 10 March 8, 2004. R. Sam Hopkins ("Trustee") was appointed as the 11 chapter 7 trustee. On June 1, 2004, Appellants Nicholas A.
12 Thomason, Sandra Thomason, Byron Thomason and Marilynn Thomason
13 (collectively, "Appellants")³ filed an adversary proceeding 14 against Debtors, Trustee, William Forsberg ("Mr. Forsberg") and 15 his wife Colleen Forsberg (together, the "Forsbergs"), and New 16 Britain Investors, LLC ("New Britain") (collectively, 17 "Appellees").

18 In the adversary proceeding (A.P. No. 04-6134), Appellants 19 sought (among other things) a judgment quieting title in certain 20 parcels of real property referred to as "Agren," "Farmstead" and 21 "Teton Pastures." Following a five-day trial, the bankruptcy 22 court issued a 79-page memorandum decision, holding that (among 23

24 ²Unless otherwise indicated, all chapter, section and rule 25 references are to the Bankruptcy Code, 11 U.S.C. §§ 101-1330, and 26 to the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, Rules 1001-9036, as 27 enacted and promulgated prior to the effective date of The 28 Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005, Pub. L. 109-8, 119 Stat. 23.

³Thomason Farms, Inc. was also a plaintiff in the adversary proceeding, but is not a party to this appeal.

1 other things), Debtors' bankruptcy estate owned an undivided one-2 third interest in Agren and Teton Pastures.

3 The court also held that Mr. Forsberg held an undivided one-4 third interest in Farmstead, subject to any community property
5 interest of his wife. The court further held that mortgages 6 asserted by Appellants against Agren were not enforceable and 7 that Trustee could sell Agren and Teton Pastures free and clear 8 of the interests of co-owners (viz., the Appellants). Finally, 9 in a finding relevant to this appeal, the court concluded -- in 10 favor of Appellants -- that neither Debtor Greg Thomason nor his 11 bankruptcy estate held an enforceable interest in property known 12 as the "Sonja Thomason House."

13 Appellants appealed the judgment entered following the 14 trial. On August 7, 2007, we issued a memorandum affirming the 15 bankruptcy court's judgment. Appellants did not appeal our 16 decision. Rather, on September 11, 2007, Appellants filed with 17 the bankruptcy court a motion for reconsideration, for relief 18 from judgment and for new trial. After much briefing by the 19 parties, the bankruptcy court entered a thoughtful and well-20 reasoned 17-page memorandum decision explaining why Federal Rule 21 of Civil Procedure 60(b) ("Rule 60(b)") (incorporated by Rule 22 9024) was inapplicable and why no fraud on the court occurred.
23 On November 26, 2007, the bankruptcy court entered an order 24 denying the motion for reconsideration. That order was not 25 appealed.

26 Even though the judgment had been affirmed and is final, and 27 even though the bankruptcy court had denied their first post-28 appeal motion for relief from the judgment, Appellants continued

1 to file pleadings requesting that the court vacate the judgment
2 or grant a new trial. On September 26, 2008, Nicholas and Sandra 3 Thomason, acting pro se, filed a "Demand for Retrial and Motion
4 to Dismiss Bankruptcy" ("AP Demand") in the adversary
5 proceeding.⁴ On the same date, they filed the identical document 6 in the main case ("Case Demand"). On November 28, Byron and 7 Marilyn Thomason, acting pro se, joined the AP Demand and the 8 Case Demand.

9 In the AP Demand and the Case Demand, Appellants again 10 alleged fraud on the court, attaching the following documents as 11 exhibits: (1) a memorandum filed by Debtors in support of a 12 motion to dismiss a state court action against them (CV-08-554)
13 and (2) a memorandum filed by Debtors' counsel on his own behalf 14 in support of a motion to dismiss the same state court action
15 (CV-08-554). Trustee, New Britain, the Forsbergs and Debtors
16 opposed both the AP Demand and the Case Demand.

17 On December 10, 2008, the bankruptcy court held a hearing on 18 the AP Demand and the Case Demand and announced its findings and 19 conclusions on the record. The court stated that it had read all 20 of the allegations of fraudulent conduct, and concluded that none 21 of the representations and conduct "would arise [sic] to the 22 level of fraud required for me to revisit the adversary 23 proceeding judgment nor to simply order the bankruptcy case
24 dismissed." The court disagreed with Appellants' contentions 25 that "false or fraudulent information was given the Court."

26
27 ⁴Only Nicholas signed the AP Demand, and only his name 28 appears in the caption. The opening sentence of the AP Demand, however, states that both Nicholas and Sandra are seeking relief.
At the hearing, Nicholas indicated that Sandra did join in both Demands.

1 On December 10, 2008, the court entered orders denying the 2 AP Demand and the Case Demand. On December 19, 2008, Appellants
3 filed a timely notice of appeal of the order denying the Case
4 Demand, leading to BAP No. ID-09-1001. On Monday, December 22, 5 2008, Appellants filed a timely notice of appeal of the order
6 denying the AP Demand,⁵ leading to BAP No. ID-09-1000.

7 On May 5, 2009, we entered an order observing that 8 Appellants did not provide excerpts of the record containing all 9 of the items required by Rule 8009(b). In particular, Appellants 10 had not provided the AP Demand and the Case Demand, the 11 oppositions, the orders being appealed, the findings of fact and 12 conclusions of law of the bankruptcy court, and the notices of 13 appeal. We indicated that we would not dismiss the appeal for 14 these deficiencies as long as Appellants provided a transcript of 15 the court's oral findings and conclusions no later than May 26, 16 2009. We received the transcript on June 3, 2009. Despite the 17 tardiness in delivery of the transcript, we will address the 18 merits of the appeal.

19 II. ISSUE

20 Did the bankruptcy court abuse its discretion in denying the 21 AP Demand and the Case Demand?
22

23 ⁵New Britain and Forsberg argue that this notice of appeal 24 is untimely. They are incorrect. The notice is timely under 25 Rules 8002(a) (requiring a notice of appeal to be filed within 26 ten days of the entry of the order or judgment) and 9006(a) 27 (providing that the computation period includes the last day, 28 unless the last day falls on a Saturday or Sunday or court holiday, in which event the period runs until the end of the next day that the court is open). As the tenth day following entry of the order fell on a Saturday, the last day for filing the notice of appeal was Monday, December 22. U.S. v. Schimmels (In re Schimmels), 85 F.3d 416, 419-20 (9th Cir. 1996).

III. JURISDICTION

The bankruptcy court had jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 157(b) (2) (A), (B), (C), (E), (K), (N) and (O) and § 1334. We have jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. § 158.⁶

IV. STANDARDS OF REVIEW

We treat the AP Demand as a motion for relief from the judgment under Rule 60(b). We review orders denying such motions for abuse of discretion. Casey v. Albertson's Inc., 362 F.3d 1254, 1257 (9th Cir. 2004); Hammer v. Drago (In re Hammer), 112 B.R. 341, 345 (9th Cir. BAP 1990), aff'd, 940 F.2d 524 (9th Cir. 1991). "The Ninth Circuit has held that rulings on motions for relief from judgment will be reversed only upon a clear showing of abuse of discretion." Hammer, 112 B.R. at 345 (emphasis in original), citing Meadows v. Dominican Republic, 817 F.2d 517, 521 (9th Cir. 1987).

⁶Under 28 U.S.C. § 158(a) and (c), we have appellate jurisdiction over final orders or, with leave of court, over interlocutory orders. The order denying the Case Demand was essentially an order denying a request to dismiss the bankruptcy case. Using the "pragmatic approach to finality," we have held that such an order is final, although generally orders denying dismissal of a bankruptcy case are interlocutory. Compare Canadian Commercial Bank v. Hotel Hollywood (In re Hotel Hollywood), 95 B.R. 130, 132 (9th Cir. BAP 1988) ("the orders appealed from, given the circumstances of this case, affect the rights of the parties with a degree of finality sufficient to warrant appellate review") with Dunkley v. Rega Props., Ltd. (In re Rega Props., Ltd.), 894 F.2d 1136, 1137-38 (9th Cir. 1990) (order denying motion to dismiss debtor's petition as filed in bad faith was not final order).

In this case, we will follow the Ninth Circuit's lead in Rega Properties, and hold that the order denying the Case Demand is interlocutory. Nevertheless, even though the order does not appear to be final, we can treat the notice of appeal as a motion for leave to appeal and grant leave to appeal pursuant to Rule 8003(c). See Fed. R. Bankr.P. 8003(c); Cutter v. Seror (In re Cutter), 398 B.R. 6, 16-17 (9th Cir. BAP 2008); Roderick v. Levy (In re Roderick Timber Co.), 185 B.R. 601, 604 (9th Cir. BAP 1995). We do so here.

1 We treat the Case Demand as a motion to dismiss the 2 bankruptcy case for "cause." We review the denial of such a 3 motion for abuse of discretion. We review the bankruptcy court's 4 decision whether or not to dismiss a chapter 7 case for "cause"
5 for abuse of discretion. Sherman v. SEC (In re Sherman), 491
6 F.3d 948, 969-70 (9th Cir. 2007); Mendez v. Salven (In re
7 Mendez), 367 B.R. 109, 113 (9th Cir. BAP 2007).

8 We will find an abuse of discretion only if we have a 9 definite and firm conviction that the bankruptcy court has 10 committed a clear error of judgment in the conclusion it reached.
11 Mendez, 367 B.R. at 113.

12 V. DISCUSSION

13 A. Matters Not Presented to the Bankruptcy Court

14 Generally, appellate courts do not consider arguments "that 15 are not 'properly raise[d]' in the trial courts." O'Rourke v.
16 Seaboard Sur. Co. (In re E.R. Fegert, Inc.), 887 F.2d 955, 957
17 (9th Cir. 1989); Concrete Equip. Co., Inc. v. Fox (In re Vigil 18 Bros. Constr., Inc.), 193 B.R. 513, 520 (9th Cir. BAP 1996). See 19 also In re Cybernetic Serv., Inc., 252 F.3d 1039, 1045 n.3 (9th 20 Cir. 2001) (appellate court will not explore ramifications of 21 argument because it was not raised below and, accordingly, was 22 waived); Scovis v. Henrichsen (In re Scovis), 249 F.3d 975, 984 23 (9th Cir. 2001) (court will not consider issue raised for first 24 time on appeal absent exceptional circumstances).

25 Appellants argue for the first time on appeal that the 26 bankruptcy court "deliberately suppressed the whole of these 27 previously submitted documents to assist the [Trustee] in 28 obtaining an illegal claim to an asset" and that by this

1 "suppression," the bankruptcy court "created the platform to 2 allow his former law partners [to obtain a judgment] based on 3 deliberately suppressed and fabricated evidence." See pages 3-4 4 of Appellants' Opening Briefs. Even though neither the AP Demand
5 nor the Case Demand refers to bias of the judge, and even though 6 this is not an appeal of a motion for disqualification or recusal 7 of the judge, the Appellants request that we reverse on these 8 grounds. We will not do so, as these arguments have been raised 9 for the first time on appeal. Even if these arguments had been 10 raised prior to the appeal, Appellants have not demonstrated in 11 their briefs the existence of any such bias or any grounds for 12 disqualification.

13 Moreover, Appellants are requesting us to consider evidence 14 not presented to the bankruptcy court in the context of the AP
15 Demand and the Case Demand. Appellants' AP Demand and Case
16 Demand referred to two documents not mentioned in their briefs 17 here. Rather, they have appended to their opening brief four 18 documents that were not mentioned in the AP Demand or in the Case
19 Demand: (1) a letter dated September 18, 2003, from Northwest
20 Farm Credit Service to BNG Partnership, (2) certain balance 21 sheets of Thomason Farms, Inc. and BNG Partnership, (3) the last 22 three pages of the bankruptcy court's 79-page memorandum decision 23 which was the subject of BAP Nos. ID-06-1026 and ID-06-1365, and 24 (4) an agricultural application for credit.

25 Because the four documents appended to the Appellants' 26 briefs were not presented to the bankruptcy court in the context 27 of the AP Demand and the Case Demand, we cannot consider them in 28 this appeal. Oyama v. Sheehan (In re Sheehan), 253 F.3d 507, 512

1 n.5 (9th Cir. 2001) ("Evidence that was not before the lower 2 court will not generally be considered on appeal"). As noted by 3 the Ninth Circuit in Kirschner v. Uniden Corp of Am., 842 F.2d 4 1074, 1077-78 (9th Cir. 1988), "'We are here concerned only with 5 the record before the trial judge when his decision was made.'"
6 Kirschner, 842 F.2d at 1077, quoting United States v. Walker, 601
7 F.2d 1051, 1055 (9th Cir. 1979) (affidavits that "were not part 8 of the evidence presented" to the trial court would not be 9 considered on appeal) (emphasis in Kirschner). Therefore, in 10 deciding whether the bankruptcy court abused its discretion in 11 denying the AP Demand and the Case Demand, we must consider only 12 the record before it when the decision was made. In any event, 13 even if we were to consider the four documents appended to their 14 opening brief, Appellants have not shown how they provide 15 evidence of fraud on the court or bias by the bankruptcy court.

16 B. Appellants Have Not Shown "Fraud on the Court"

17 Although the Appellants' briefs do not disclose or fully 18 develop the basis of their requested relief, it appears that they 19 are relying on Rule 60(b)(6) and (d)(3), arguing that the 20 judgment was obtained by fraud on the court.⁷ The bankruptcy
21

22 ⁷Rule 60(b)(3) authorizes a court to relieve a party from a 23 judgment where "fraud (whether previously called intrinsic or 24 extrinsic), misrepresentation, or misconduct by an opposing 25 party" has occurred. Appellants, however, cannot seek relief 26 under this subsection, as Rule 60(c)(1) requires a motion based 27 on subsection (b)(3) to be made no more than a year after entry 28 of the judgment. More than a year elapsed between the entry of the judgment and the filing of the AP Demand and the Case Demand.

Rule 60(b)(6) permits relief from a judgment for "any other reason that justifies relief," although such a motion must still be made within a "reasonable time." Rule 60(d)(3) states that the rule does not limit a court's power to "set aside a judgment

1 court did not abuse its discretion in denying their AP Demand and 2 the Case Demand, as Appellants did not clearly explain how 3 Appellees obtained the judgment through misrepresentation or 4 other misconduct that would constitute fraud on the court. See 5 Casey, 362 F.3d at 1260 (moving party must prove by "clear and 6 convincing evidence" that judgment was procured by fraud or 7 misconduct). In addition, the record does not support 8 Appellants' claim that the bankruptcy court's conduct in the case
9 evidenced bias or fraud. See Corey v. Loui (In re Corey), 892
10 F.2d 829, 838-39 (9th Cir. 1989).⁸

11 Although the term "fraud on the court" remains a "nebulous 12 concept," Broyhill Furniture Indus., Inc. v. Craftmaster 13 Furniture Corp., 12 F.3d 1080, 1085 (Fed. Cir. 1993), that phrase 14 "should be read narrowly, in the interest of preserving the 15 finality of judgments." Toscano v. Commissioner, 441 F.2d 930, 16 934 (9th Cir. 1971). Simply put, not all fraud is fraud on the 17

18 ⁷(...continued)
19 for fraud on the court."

20 ⁸The Ninth Circuit's comments in Corey are applicable here:

21 Appellants make a broadside attack on the impartiality
22 of [the trial judge]. We are unimpressed. A judge's 23 comments aimed at facilitating orderly proceedings are 24 not, in and of themselves, evidence of bias. See Hansen 25 v. Commissioner, 820 F.2d 1464, 1467 (9th Cir. 1987).
26 Moreover, judicial bias must arise from extrajudicial 27 sources. United States v. Grinnell Corp., 384 U.S.
28 563, 583, 86 S.Ct. 1698, 1710, 16 L.Ed.2d 778 (1966).
In this case, the record shows clearly that, to the extent the learned district judge was inclined to rule against appellants, this was the product of his knowledge of the facts of the case gained during judicial proceedings, not of any extrajudicial information.

Corey, 892 F.2d at 838-39.

1 court. To constitute fraud on the court, the alleged misconduct
2 must "harm [] the integrity of the judicial process." Alexander
3 v. Robertson, 882 F.2d 421, 424 (9th Cir. 1989). Appellants 4 argue that Appellees did not disclose certain evidence or that 5 they suppressed certain evidence. Generally, non-disclosure by 6 itself does not constitute fraud on the court. See England v.
7 Doyle, 281 F.2d 304, 310 (9th Cir. 1960) (failure to produce 8 evidence, without more, does not constitute fraud on the court).
9 Similarly, perjury by a party or witness, by itself, is not 10 normally fraud on the court. Levander v. Prober (In re 11 Levander), 180 F.3d 1114 (9th Cir. 1999).

12 Here, Appellants have not demonstrated any perjury or non-13 disclosure. In fact, the evidence of fraud presented to the 14 bankruptcy court -- Debtors' representations in a state court
15 case that they did not have an interest in the Sonja Thomason
16 House -- is consistent with testimony of Debtor Greg Thomason 17 during the trial in the adversary proceeding.⁹ In addition, the 18 allegedly suppressed Exhibit 4 to Appellants' opening briefs (the 19 agricultural application for credit) -- not mentioned in the AP 20 Demand or the Case Demand -- was introduced by Appellants as 21 Exhibit 50 at the trial and was the subject of an examination of 22 Appellant Byron Thomason. Finally, and most importantly, the 23 bankruptcy court held in its judgment that the Sonja Thomason 24 House did not belong to the estate or to Debtors. Even if Greg 25 Thomason's statements about the Sonja Thomason House had been

26
27 ⁹Appellants did not discuss, cite to or rely on this 28 "evidence" of purported fraud in their briefs. As such, this argument is deemed abandoned. See Branam v. Crowder (In re Branam), 226 B.R. 45, 55 (9th Cir. BAP 1998), aff'd, 205 F.3d 1350 (9th Cir. 1999).

1 inconsistent, the judgment on this particular property was in 2 favor of Appellants. Appellants' contention that the judgment 3 was procured by fraud on the court is therefore confusing.

4 The Ninth Circuit has held that "fraud on the court" must be 5 shown by clear and convincing evidence. England, 281 F.2d at 6 309-10. Appellants have not presented clear and convincing 7 evidence of any such fraud. The bankruptcy court therefore did 8 not abuse its discretion in denying the AP Demand and Case 9 Demand.

10 C. Appellants Did Not Show "Cause" to Dismiss the Main Case

11 Under section 707(a), a "court may dismiss a case under this 12 chapter only after notice and hearing and only for cause, 13 including" three enumerated causes. 11 U.S.C. § 707(a); 14 Sherman, 491 F.3d at 970. Appellants have not argued that any of 15 the three enumerated causes exist here (unreasonable and 16 prejudicial delay, nonpayment of fees, or failure to file 17 documents required by section 521). Appellants have not 18 articulated any other "cause" for dismissal, other than the 19 "fraud on the court" and bias claims that we already have 20 addressed. Accordingly, the bankruptcy court did not err in 21 denying Appellants' request to dismiss the bankruptcy case.

22 D. Request for Sanctions

23 Debtors, the Forsbergs and New Britain have requested in 24 their briefs that we impose sanctions against Appellants under 25 Rule 8020 for filing and prosecuting a frivolous appeal. Trustee 26 indicates that he will be filing a separate motion for sanctions.
27 Trustee's approach is the correct one: Rule 8020 requires that a 28 request for sanctions be made in a separately filed motion. A

1 request for sanctions in a party's appellate brief is not 2 sufficient and we therefore deny without prejudice the requests
3 for sanctions by Debtors, the Forsbergs and New Britain. Nghiem
4 v. Ghazvini (In re Nghiem), 264 B.R. 557, 560 n.4 (9th Cir. BAP 5 2001); Highland Fed. Bank v. Maynard (In re Maynard), 264 B.R.
6 209, 213 n.5 (9th Cir. BAP 2001). We will consider the sanctions 7 requests upon the filing of appropriate motions.

8 VI. CONCLUSION

9 For the foregoing reasons, we AFFIRM.
