Appeal from the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of Arizona

Honorable Redfield T. Baum, Sr., Chief Bankruptcy Judge, Presiding

Before: NEITER,² KLEIN and DUNN, Bankruptcy Judges.

¹ This disposition is not appropriate for publication. Although it may be cited for whatever persuasive value it may have (see Fed. R. App. P. 32.1), it has no precedential value. See 9th Cir. BAP Rule 8013-1.

² Hon. Richard M. Neiter, U.S. Bankruptcy Judge for the Central District of California, sitting by designation.

1 This appeal arises from the bankruptcy court's judgment:

2 (1) Granting summary judgment in favor of Appellee that 3 certain real property located in Kula, Maui, Hawaii ("Lot A3")
4 was property of the estate prior to the transfer to Appellant;

5 (2) Granting summary judgment in favor of Appellee, in 6 part, that at all relevant times Debtor owned a 1/3 interest in 7 Lot A3, but denying summary judgment as to the remaining 2/3 8 interest, because the Trustee filed her complaint to avoid the 9 post-petition transfer of said interest after the two year
10 statute of limitation imposed by § 549(d).³

11 (3) Granting judgment, after trial, in favor of the 12 Appellee avoiding the post-petition transfer of Lot A3 and 13 finding that the statute of limitations provided by § 549(d) was 14 equitably tolled so that Appellee's complaint for avoidance of 15 the transfer of Lot A3 was timely filed.

16 We AFFIRM the determinations regarding limitations and the 17 applicability of equitable tolling, VACATE the order addressing 18 summary judgment in its entirety, and REMAND for trial on whether 19 the alleged trust existed and was effective at the relevant 20 times.

21 FACTS

22 William P. Bender ("Debtor"), filed a voluntary chapter 12 23 petition on September 24, 1997. On May 29, 1998, the case was 24 converted to one under chapter 11. On January 20, 2000, the case

25
26 ³ Unless otherwise indicated, all chapter, section and rule 27 references are to the Bankruptcy Code, 11 U.S.C. §§ 101-1330, and 28 to the Federal Rules of Bankruptcy Procedure, Rules 1001-9036, as enacted and promulgated prior to the effective date (October 17, 2005) of the Bankruptcy Abuse Prevention and Consumer Protection Act of 2005, Pub. L. 109-8, Apr. 20, 2005, 119 Stat. 23.

1 was converted to one under chapter 7, whereupon Diane M. Mann, 2 the appellee herein ("Appellee" or "Trustee"), was appointed as 3 the chapter 7 Trustee.

4 Debtor owned Lot A3 in its entirety pre-petition. He had 5 acquired it as part of a larger plot of land located in Kula, 6 Maui, Hawaii in the 1980's. On March 10, 1993, Debtor executed a 7 quitclaim deed, transferring Lot A3 to William P. Bender and 8 Ralph P.L. Bender Jr. as trustees under William Paul Bender Trust
9 (the "Trust"). Although the Trustee requested documentation 10 evidencing the creation of the Trust, Debtor never produced such 11 documentation. Debtor asserts that the beneficiaries of the 12 Trust are Debtor, his brother and his sister.

13 Debtor did not list any property in Hawaii on his bankruptcy
14 schedules. On his Schedule B, under "interests in partnerships 15 or joint ventures," Debtor listed "Trust" with an unknown value.
16 On February 13, 1999, the Trust transferred Lot A3 to Debtor.
17 Debtor contends this was transferred to him personally and not to 18 him as a representative of his bankruptcy estate. According to 19 Debtor, this was done at the request of the title company to cure 20 a title defect.

21 On May 31, 2000, while Debtor was in chapter 7 and without 22 court approval, Debtor executed and delivered a quitclaim deed
23 transferring a 100 per cent interest in Lot A3 to Congrejo 24 Investments, LLC, the appellant herein ("Congrejo" or 25 "Appellant"). The members of Congrejo were represented to be the 26 same individuals as were represented as the beneficiaries of the 27 Trust, namely, Debtor, his brother, and his sister. This deed 28 was recorded on June 28, 2000.

1 Appellee filed her complaint to avoid the transfer to 2 Appellant pursuant to § 549 on June 26, 2002. The parties filed 3 cross motions for summary judgment, which were heard on March 10, 4 2005 and taken under advisement at that time. The bankruptcy
5 court then issued a minute order on the cross motions on April 6 20, 2005, in which it held that: (I) Lot A3 was sufficiently 7 rooted in the pre-bankruptcy past of the Debtor that it should 8 not be excluded from property of the bankruptcy estate; (ii) the 9 transfer for purposes of § 549 occurred on May 31, 2000, so that 10 the Trustee's complaint was filed outside of the two-year statute 11 of limitations; and (iii) there were material facts in dispute as 12 to whether there was cause to allow the statute of limitations to 13 be equitably tolled.

14 To resolve this dispute, the bankruptcy court conducted a 15 bench trial on January 25, 2007. At the conclusion of that 16 trial, the court determined that equitable tolling of the 17 § 549(d) statute of limitations was appropriate under the 18 circumstances described hereafter. As a result, the Trustee's 19 complaint was timely filed. The court then avoided the transfer 20 of Lot A3 from Debtor to Appellant and declared that title to 100
21 percent of Lot A3 was held by the Trustee. Following the entry 22 of the judgment on April 23, 2007 avoiding the transfer to 23 Congrejo, Appellant filed this timely appeal.

24 JURISDICTION

25 The bankruptcy court had jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C.
26 sections 1334 and 157(b)(1) and (b)(2)(H) and (O). We have 27 jurisdiction under 28 U.S.C. section 158.

1 ISSUES

2 (1) Whether the bankruptcy court erred in ruling that 100
3 percent of Lot A3 was property of the estate.

4 (2) Whether the bankruptcy court erred in ruling that the 5 Trustee's avoidance complaint was not timely filed when it was 6 filed two years and 26 days after the date of execution and 7 delivery of the quitclaim deed but within two years of the date 8 said deed was recorded.

9 (3) Whether the bankruptcy court erred in ruling that the 10 statute of limitations prescribed by § 549(d) was equitably 11 tolled.

12 STANDARD OF REVIEW

13 A bankruptcy court's summary judgment order is reviewed de 14 novo. Universal Serv. Admin. Co. v. Post-Confirmation Comm. (In 15 re Incomnet, Inc.), 463 F.3d 1064 (9th Cir. 2006). The 16 bankruptcy court's conclusions of law are also reviewed de novo.
17 Elliott v. Four Seasons Props. (In re Frontier Props., Inc.), 979
18 F.2d 1358, 1362 (9th Cir. 1992). Equitable tolling presents a 19 mixed question of law and fact. We review mixed questions of law 20 and fact de novo. Murray v. Bammer (In re Bammer), 131 F.3d 788, 21 792 (9th Cir. 1997). A mixed question exists when the facts are 22 established, the rule of law is undisputed, and the issue is 23 whether the facts satisfy the legal rule. Id. Mixed questions 24 require consideration of legal concepts and the exercise of 25 judgment about the values that animate legal principles. Id.

1 DISCUSSION

2 1. Property of the Estate

3 Section 541(a) (1) provides that the bankruptcy estate 4 includes all legal or equitable interests of the debtor in 5 property, wherever located or by whomever held, as of the 6 commencement of the case.

7 (a) The commencement of a case under section 301, 302, 8 or 303 of this title creates an estate. Such estate is 9 comprised of all the following property, wherever 10 located and by whomever held:

11 (1) Except as provided in subsections (b) and 12 (c) (2) of this section, all legal or equitable 13 interests of the debtor in property as of the 14 commencement of the case.

15 In finding that Lot A3 was property of the estate, despite 16 the fact that the Trust held record title to Lot A3 at the time
17 the Debtor filed his bankruptcy petition, the bankruptcy court
18 found that Lot A3 was sufficiently rooted in the Debtor's pre-19 bankruptcy past that it should not be excluded from his estate.
20 The bankruptcy court based this ruling on Rau v. Ryerson (In re 21 Ryerson), 739 F.2d 1423, 1426 (9th Cir. 1984), which cites the 22 Supreme Court case, Segal v. Rochelle, 382 U.S. 375 (1966).
23 Segal v. Rochelle was decided under the Bankruptcy Act of 1898, 24 as amended, the predecessor of the Bankruptcy Code of 1978, the 25 latter being applicable at the time of Debtor's transfer.

26 In Segal, the debtors obtained loss-carryback tax refunds
27 after the filing of their bankruptcy cases in 1961. The refunds, 28 however, were based on losses that occurred in 1959 and 1960 (before debtors' bankruptcy) to offset net income on which the debtors had paid taxes. Therefore, the Supreme Court concluded that the carryback losses were so "rooted" in the debtors' pre-

1 bankruptcy past that they should be regarded as property of the 2 debtors' estate.

3 The Ninth Circuit in Ryerson concluded that payments to 4 which the debtor became entitled upon termination of his 5 employment, some eight months after his bankruptcy filing, were 6 property of the estate pursuant to § 541(a)(1). The court 7 reasoned that the termination payments, to the extent that they 8 were related to pre-bankruptcy services, represented value for 9 years of service completed prior to the bankruptcy. They were 10 not an arbitrary amount arising after bankruptcy. Therefore, the 11 court found that the payments were "sufficiently rooted in the 12 pre-bankruptcy past as to be included in the estate." Ryerson, 13 739 F.2d at 1436.

14 In Ryerson, the court pointed out that Segal was decided 15 under the old Bankruptcy Act, and that, "the Code follows Segal 16 insofar as it includes after-acquired property 'sufficiently 17 rooted in the prebankruptcy past' but eliminates the requirement 18 that it not be entangled with the debtor's ability to make a 19 fresh start." Ryerson, 739 F.2d at 1426 citing S. Rep. No. 989, 20 supra at 82, reprinted in 1978 U.S. Code Cong. & Ad. News 5868.

21 In the case before us, the Debtor owned a 100 percent
22 interest in Lot A3 pre-bankruptcy. Although he transferred Lot 23 A3 to the Trust pre-petition, the validity of the Trust is 24 suspect. Neither Debtor nor Appellant ever produced the 25 instrument creating the Trust. The Trust paid no consideration 26 to Debtor for its purported purchase of Lot A3 and held no assets 27 other than its purported ownership of Lot A3 as of the bankruptcy 28 petition date and thereafter. The Trust transferred Lot A3 to 1 Debtor for no consideration on February 13, 1999 pursuant to a 2 deed recorded on March 18, 1999.

3 Appellant contends in its reply brief that the Segal "deeply 4 rooted" concept was replaced by § 541(a)(6), which would bring, 5 at most, 1/3 of Lot A3 into the estate. Debtor admits that he 6 has a 1/3 beneficial interest in the Trust and a 1/3 membership 7 interest in Congrejo. He also contends he is a co-trustee (with 8 his brother) in the Trust and that he is the sole managing member 9 of Congrejo.

10 Section 541(a)(6) sweeps into the estate post-petition 11 "proceeds, product, [or] offspring" of estate property. The 12 court in Ryerson indicates that § 541(a)(6) codified Segal, as 13 the Senate Report accompanying the enactment of § 541(a)(6)
14 specifically cites Segal. However, some courts have concluded 15 that Segal was superseded by statute. See, e.g., Burgess v.
16 Sikes (In re Burgess), 438 F.3d 493, 498 (5th Cir. 2006)
17 ("although Congress has specifically approved of Segal's result, 18 Segal's 'sufficiently rooted' test did not survive the enactment 19 of the Bankruptcy Code"). Therefore, Appellee's reliance upon 20 the "sufficiently rooted" test is tenuous.

21 As Appellant argues, the Ninth Circuit has not applied Segal
22 to a situation similar to the facts of this case. Appellant's 23 Reply at 5. It has limited its use of Segal to situations where 24 a debtor received a post-petition benefit pursuant to a pre-25 petition right or entitlement. Id. As such, we question the 26 applicability of the Segal and Ryerson line of cases to the facts 27 of the case before us. Although the legislative history of 28 § 541(a)(6) includes a citation to Segal, the language of 1 § 541(a)(6) does not explicitly adopt Segal. In short, we are 2 not persuaded that the chapter 7 trustee was "entitled to 3 judgment as a matter of law" under the Segal theory, as required

4 by Rule 56(c). Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c), incorporated by Fed. R.
5 Bankr. P. 7056.

6 This conclusion does not, however, end the litigation 7 because the record indicates that there is a genuine issue of 8 material fact regarding whether the Trust was valid and 9 enforceable, which issue is appropriate for resolution at trial.
10 The bankruptcy court did not address in its minute orders whether 11 Lot A3 may have been property of the estate because Debtor held 12 an equitable interest (either as owner, beneficiary, trustee, or 13 member of the record owner) in Lot A3, or that Lot A3 was held 14 for Debtor's benefit, ever since he acquired it in the 1980's.
15 This theory is based on the fact that no documentary evidence of 16 the creation of the Trust was ever produced, and as Appellee
17 argues, the Debtor disregarded the Trust as a separate entity 18 from himself. Neither the Trust nor the other beneficiaries gave 19 any consideration for the transfer of Lot A3 to the Trust nor did 20 Congrejo when Lot A3 was transferred to it. Neither did any of 21 them share in any profit from the Trust's 1998 sale of Lot A1 22 (which was originally acquired by Debtor along with Lots A2⁴ and 23 A3). The net proceeds of that sale went to Debtor alone and not 24 to the Trust or its other beneficiaries.

26 ⁴ Lot A2, which is not subject to this appeal, was sold 27 during the pendency of the bankruptcy case. After $100,000.00 of 28 the sale proceeds were paid to the Gummows, the remainder was paid to Debtor as trustee of the Bender Family Trust.
Appellant's Reply at 7, note 3.

1 In support of her argument, Appellee cites Beatrice v.
2 Braunstein (In re Beatrice), 296 B.R. 576, 580 (1st Cir. BAP 3 2003). In Beatrice, the debtor had established a trust for the 4 benefit of his children, pursuant to which he retained the power 5 to terminate the trust and to add or eliminate beneficiaries.
6 The chapter 7 trustee sought a declaratory judgment that the real 7 property held by the trust was property of the estate pursuant to 8 § 541(a). The trustee also sought a declaratory judgment that 9 the trust was a sham, and, therefore, the property held in trust 10 is property of the estate pursuant to § 541(a). Beatrice, 296
11 B.R. at 579.

12 Citing Collier, the Panel in Beatrice explained, “when 13 property of the estate is alleged to be held in trust, the burden 14 rests upon the claimant to establish the original trust 15 relationship.” Id. at 580. The trust gave the trustee broad 16 powers to modify the trust, including full and absolute power to 17 sell the real estate, and power to pledge the property to secure 18 his personal debt. Id. at 581. In effect, the debtor had given 19 up neither ownership nor control of the trust property.
20 Accordingly, the Panel found that the trust was property of the 21 debtor’s bankruptcy estate. Id.

22 In the case at bar, Appellant argues that there is 23 uncontroverted evidence that the Trust existed, that it had two 24 trustees whose joint approval was required for any significant 25 actions, and that it had three equal beneficiaries. Appellant’s 26 Reply at 6. Appellant distinguishes the present case from 27 Beatrice because in Beatrice, the settlor was the sole trustee 28 who had absolute control. Here, Appellant argues that Debtor was

1 not the sole trustee; rather, he was a co-trustee with his 2 brother.

3 Additionally, Appellant argues that the Trustee has raised 4 the issue of whether the Trust existed for the first time on 5 appeal and that the Trustee previously acknowledged the existence 6 of the Trust in various pleadings in the adversary proceeding.

7 Contrary to Appellant's argument, the record indicates that 8 the chapter 7 trustee questioned the validity of the Trust from 9 the outset of the dispute. A motion for summary judgment based 10 on the position that the Appellee is entitled to judgment as a 11 matter of law as to Lot A3 even if the Trust is valid is not a 12 concession that the Trust is valid for any purpose other than the 13 summary judgment motion. The issue of validity was timely raised 14 in the bankruptcy court and remains to be resolved by trial in 15 the bankruptcy court now that the summary judgment strategy has 16 not succeeded. The bankruptcy court should conduct an inquiry 17 along the lines of the Beatrice case to determine whether the 18 Trust was a sham and whether the property to which the Trust held 19 title was really property of the Debtor at all relevant times.
20 We are mindful that a conclusion that the trust is not valid may 21 enable the trustee to recover more than a 1/3 interest in Lot A3.

22 2. Equitable Tolling

23 The principle of equitable tolling applies to Section 24 549(d), as stated by the Ninth Circuit in Olsen v. Zerbetz (In re 25 Olsen), 36 F.3d 71 (9th Cir. 1994). In Olsen, the debtors owned 26 certain real property prepetition. They listed the property on 27 their schedules and knew it was listed for sale by the trustee.
28 Yet debtors conveyed the property to their son without court

1 authorization and without notice to the trustee. They also 2 violated their duty to cooperate with the trustee and surrender 3 any recorded information. Olsen, 36 F.3d at 73. Therefore, the 4 court found that the statute was equitably tolled until the date 5 the trustee discovered the debtors' conveyances.

6 Appellant cites Gardenhire v. IRS (In re Gardenhire), 209
7 F.3d 1145 (9th Cir. 2000), a Ninth Circuit case wherein the court 8 held that equitable tolling did not apply. In Gardenhire, due to 9 clerical errors, the debtors' Chapter 13 case was dismissed and 10 then reinstated. The claimant's proof of claim in the debtors' 11 case was filed on day 191, outside the 180-day period under 12 § 502(b)(9). The court questioned whether the claimant had been 13 "sufficiently diligent" in filing its proof of claim.

14 The [claimant] could have complied with the original 15 180 day period if it had only tried harder. The 16 [claimant] still had 13 days left in which to file its proof of claim after being notified that the [debtors'] case had been reinstated.

17 Gardenhire, 209 F.3d at 1151-52.

18 Appellant likens the present case to Gardenhire in that the 19 Appellee learned of the transfer at least by October 19, 2000, 20 which was approximately nineteen months before the deadline of 21 May 31, 2002. According to Appellant, Trustee had plenty of time 22 to file her avoidance complaint, but instead her lawyer
23 "misdocketed" the deadline on the assumption that the two-year 24 limitations period began to run on the date of recordation of the 25 deed, i.e., June 28, 2000, rather than on the date of execution 26 and delivery of the deed.

27 The Supreme Court has since come to the opposite conclusion
28 from Gardenhire in United States v. Young, 535 U.S. 43 (2002)

1 (limitations period begins to run on the date of discovery of the 2 claim, even if discovery occurs within the statutory limitations 3 period). In light of the Young holding, we are compelled to 4 follow the Circuit's holding in the Olsen case. Olsen holds 5 that, in the context of § 549(d), the statute is tolled until the 6 trustee discovers the conveyance. Furthermore, while it appears 7 that the Appellee filed the complaint relying on the incorrect 8 transfer date, this did not shorten the statute of limitations.
9 The two-year period was not reduced because of the "misdocketing" 10 as the Appellant characterizes it.

11 The bankruptcy court's reasoning as to why the Debtor's 12 conduct equitably tolled the statute of limitations is sound.
13 Debtor failed to disclose any interest in Lot A3 or any property 14 in Hawaii, when he owned at least a beneficial interest in 1/3 of 15 Lot A3 as a beneficiary of the Trust and was a co-trustee thereof 16 on the date of his petition. Furthermore, the Debtor failed to 17 disclose the sizable $663,000.00 outstanding debt he owed to 18 Warren and Rosalie Gummow, who held a trust deed against Debtor's 19 property in Maui.⁵ Id. In fact, the Trustee only learned of the 20 Debtor's interest in Lot A3 after receiving correspondence from 21 the Gummows' attorney. Id. In addition, Debtor never updated or 22 amended his schedules or Statement of Financial Affairs to 23 reflect his various interests in Lot A3, even after the Trustee 24 demanded that he do so.

27 ⁵ The Gummows' loan was secured by the entire plot of land 28 owned by Debtor, which he later subdivided into lots, including Lot A3.

1 Throughout the pendency of his bankruptcy case, Debtor
2 failed to produce relevant documents requested by the Trustee or 3 her counsel, while his attorney made efforts to excuse the lack 4 of production. He failed to appear at his 2004 examination 5 scheduled for August 29, 2001, causing the court to issue an 6 order to show cause, which was continued to allow for Debtor's
7 examination and production of documents. A series of discussions
8 and correspondence then ensued until the Trustee filed her 9 avoidance action.

10 There is no dispute that Debtor did not disclose the 11 transfer of Lot A3 to the Trust, or his reacquisition and 12 subsequent transfer to Congrejo. The finding after trial by the 13 bankruptcy court that he took active steps to conceal his 14 interest in Lot A3 was not clearly erroneous. Therefore, the 15 bankruptcy court was correct in ruling that equitable tolling 16 applied, and the statute of limitations began to run on 17 October 19, 2000. Accordingly, the Trustee's complaint filed on 18 June 26, 2002 was filed within the two-year statute of 19 limitations period of § 549(d) and was timely filed.⁶

21 ⁶ In light of our ruling that equitable tolling applies, we 22 need not discuss in detail whether the bankruptcy court erred in 23 determining that the statute of limitations begins to run at the 24 date of the execution and delivery of the deed. The result 25 remains that the Appellee's complaint is deemed timely filed.
26 However, we agree with the bankruptcy court that because the term 27 "transfer" was undefined by § 549 (but defined for avoidance 28 actions brought under §§ 547 or 548), the definition in § 101(54) of transfer to be used throughout Title 11 should be used in § 549 actions. According to § 101(54) a transfer is "every mode, direct or indirect, absolute or conditional, voluntary or involuntary, of disposing of or parting with property or with an interest in property...."

1 CONCLUSION

2 For the reasons set forth above, we AFFIRM the bankruptcy 3 court's determination that (1) the limitations period began to 4 run upon execution and delivery of the deed from Debtor to 5 Congrejo; and (2) the statute of limitations was equitably tolled 6 due to the Debtor's conduct in concealing the transfer and his 7 various interests in said property; and VACATE and REMAND to the 8 bankruptcy court for further proceedings to determine if the 9 entirety of Lot A3 or any portion thereof was property of the 10 estate.
