1 Before: PAPPAS, JURY and KURTZ, Bankruptcy Judges.

Appellant, Chapter 13⁴ Trustee Wayne Godare ("Trustee"), 2 3 appeals the order of the bankruptcy court confirming the chapter 13 plan of Appellees, Debtors David and Rebecca Reed 4 ("Debtors"). Because, in making its decision to confirm Debtors' 5 plan, the bankruptcy court relied on the Ninth Circuit's decision 6 7 in Maney v. Kagenveama (In re Kagenveama), 541 F.3d 868 (9th Cir. 2008), and because the rule of law announced in In re Kagenveama 8 9 has since been overruled by the Ninth Circuit sitting in Danielson v. Flores (In re Flores), 735 F.3d 855 (9th Cir. 2013) (en banc) 10 ("Flores II"), we VACATE the bankruptcy court's order and REMAND 11 12 this matter for further proceedings.

PROCEDURAL HISTORY⁵

In an extensive amended memorandum opinion (the "Memorandum 14 15 Opinion") entered on August 9, 2011, the bankruptcy court decided that Debtors' chapter 13 plan should be confirmed, and that 16 17 Trustee's objection to confirmation should be overruled. ER at 18 106-28. In particular, the bankruptcy court found that Debtors were above-median income debtors for purposes of § 1325(b)(4), but 19 that they had negative disposable income per § 1325(b)(2)-(3) and 20 line 59 of Form B22C. Therefore, based on the rule announced in 21 22 In re Kagenveama, the court held that Debtors were not required to propose a five-year plan, as Trustee argued they must, and instead 1 2 confirmed Debtors' chapter 13 plan, which was to be completed in forty-three months. Memorandum Opinion at 22, ER at 127. 3 In the Memorandum Opinion, the bankruptcy court explained how it had 4 calculated Debtors' projected disposable income⁶ and concluded it 5 was bound by In re Kagenveama concerning its determination of the 6 7 applicable commitment period in Debtors' case stating, "I conclude that the Supreme Court's decisions [of Hamilton v. Lanning, 8 9 560 U.S. 505 (2010) and Ransom v. FIA Card Servs., N.A., 131 S. Ct. 716 (2011)] did not effectively overrule 10 11 [In re] Kagenveama's holding regarding applicable commitment 12 period. Therefore, I am bound to follow that holding." Memorandum Opinion at 22, ER at 127. 13

Trustee filed a timely notice of appeal on August 17, 2011. 14 Trustee then filed a motion before this Panel to 15 ER at 129. suspend briefing in the appeal because a pending, related appeal 16 to the Ninth Circuit in Danielson v. Flores (In re Flores) might 17 18 yield a decision impacting the issues in this case. See Motion to Suspend the Briefing Schedule, BAP dkt. 4. The Panel granted 19 Trustee's motion, extended the briefing deadlines, and ordered the 20 21 parties to file supplemental briefing once Flores was decided. BAP dkt. 5. 22

23On August 31, 2012, a three-judge panel of the Ninth Circuit24decided the Flores appeal and determined that the court's decision

DISCUSSION

5 No extensive analysis of the issue on appeal is necessary. 6 Because Flores II overruled In re Kagenveama on the applicable 7 commitment period issue, and because the bankruptcy court relied on In re Kagenveama in determining the applicable commitment 8 9 period in Debtors' case, the bankruptcy court applied an incorrect rule of law in deciding that Debtors' plan should be confirmed. 10 We must therefore vacate the bankruptcy court's order confirming 11 12 the Debtors' chapter 13 plan and remand this case to the 13 bankruptcy court for further proceedings in light of Flores II. See Mele v. Mele (In re Mele), 501 B.R. 357, 364 (9th Cir. BAP 14 15 2013) (deciding that vacating and remanding to the bankruptcy court was required when, during the appeal, the rule of law 16 17 applied by the bankruptcy court was superseded or overruled).

CONCLUSION

19 For the reasons set forth above, we VACATE the bankruptcy 20 court's order confirming Debtors' chapter 13 plan and REMAND this 21 case to the bankruptcy court for further proceedings in light of 22 Flores II.
