DEATH-PENALTY CASE

Reply to Response to Motion for Relief from Judgment Pursuant to Fed.
R. Civ. P. 60(b)(6)

22
23 Respondents concede that Mr. Wood’s Motion for Relief from Judgment is 24 a proper motion brought under Rule 60(b)(6) and not a successive petition. (ECF 25 No. 122 at 3 n.1 (“Wood contends that his motion is a valid 60(b)(6) motion and 26 not an unauthorized second or successive petition because he challenges this 27 Court’s procedural rulings. . . . Wood appears to be correct.”)). They 28

1 acknowledge that a number of the Rule 60(b)(6) factors favor relief from 2 judgment. (ECF No. 122 at 5-8.) In essence, the only question remaining before
3 this Court is whether Mr. Wood is entitled to invoke Martinez v. Ryan, 132 S. Ct.
4 1309 (2012), in this Motion.

5 A. Mr. Wood’s Claims are Substantial Under Martinez.

6 Mr. Wood properly invokes Martinez because state PCR counsel failed to 7 pursue substantial claims, i.e., claims where “the claim has some merit.” Id. at 8 1318. By using the words “some merit,” the Court made clear that, to obtain
9 relief under Martinez, Mr. Wood does not have to demonstrate that the substantial 10 claims are meritorious.

11 1. The Denial of a Neurologic Exam, Claim VI.

12 The trial court denied Mr. Wood’s request for evidence of neurological 13 impairment, involving neuromapping. Respondents contend this claim is not 14 cognizable under Martinez because it does not allege ineffective assistance of 15 counsel. (ECF No. 122 at 9.) They are wrong under the reasoning of Nguyen v.
16 Curry, 736 F.3d 1287 (9th Cir. 2013). In Nguyen, the Ninth Circuit held that 17 Martinez applies to claims that appellate counsel was ineffective. The Court 18 recognized that the rationales supporting the Martinez decision apply equally to 19 claims of ineffective assistance of appellate counsel. There is no functional 20 difference between this claim (that the trial court erred) and a claim that appellate 21 counsel was ineffective for failing to raise it on direct appeal. The reason is that a
22 defendant establishes that he was prejudiced by appellate counsel’s
23 ineffectiveness when he shows that, but for counsel’s error, there was a reasonable 24 probability that the outcome of the appeal would have been different. Mason v.
25 Hanks, 97 F.3d 887, 893 (7th Cir. 1996); Mayo v. Henderson, 13 F.3d 528, 534
26 (2^d Cir. 1994); Matire v. Wainwright, 811 F.2d 1430, 1439 (11th Cir. 1987).
27 Here, Mr. Wood has alleged more than ineffectiveness and alleges that the trial
28

1 court actually violated his Eighth and Fourteenth Amendment rights. As stated in 2 the Motion, on Monday, July 21, 2014, Mr. Wood expects to supplement the 3 record with the reports from Clinical Psychologist and Certified Addiction
4 Specialist Robert L. Smith, Ph.D. and from Dr. Kenneth Benedict who evaluated
5 him recently after the appointment of the Federal Public Defender as counsel.
6 These reports will demonstrate that he was prejudiced by the lack of the 7 examination.

9 2. Counsel Was Ineffective for Failing to Cross-
10 Examine Officer Anita Sueme’s Questionable
11 Testimony that She Did Not Alter the Gun.

12 The applicability of the grave risk factor for the Arizona Supreme Court
13 was admittedly a close factor when it was decided. The Court acknowledged that 14 “there is merit to Defendant’s arguments” that the factor did not apply. State v.
15 Wood, 881 P.2d 1158, 1174 (1994). The victims were shot at close range. The 16 Arizona Supreme Court termed the circumstances of the case “unusual.” One of 17 the unusual circumstances that the Court found important, that Mr. Wood
18 allegedly cocked and uncocked his gun, was subject to challenge but the Court
19 was not aware of that available impeachment evidence. No eyewitness testified to 20 these alleged 21 acts.

22 Respondents do not contest that trial counsel failed to impeach Officer
23 Sueme with a significant prior inconsistent statement shedding significant doubt
24 on her claim she had not altered Mr. Wood’s gun. She testified she never opened 25 the gun’s cylinder. Before trial, though, she told author Stewart Gellman that she 26 had started to unload it. Ignoring the actual language in the Arizona Supreme 27 Court’s opinion indicating that Officer Sueme’s testimony was important, 28 Respondents claim her testimony did not add substantially to the Court’s determination. They point to three factors: the presence of others; the assertion

1 that Mr. Wood pointed the gun at someone else; and that one person struggled
2 with Mr. Wood for the gun.

3 As to the first point, by the Arizona Supreme Court's own admission, the 4 "mere presence of bystanders . . . does not bring the murderous act within A.R.S.
5 sec. 13-703(F)(3)." Wood, 881 P.2d at 1174. The Court added that the "risk to 6 others factor could not be found merely because [the] defendant took [a] weapon
7 into [a] crowded public place where [a] bystander could be hurt." Id. (citing State
8 v. Smith, 707 P.2d 289, 301 (Ariz. 1985)).

9 Next, the assertion that Mr. Wood was going to shoot someone else was 10 based on equivocal testimony where the witness said he did not know if Mr.
11 Wood was going do that.

12
13 A. Jimmy was working on the front of the Supra. As he went out Jimmy 14 had walked around this way and as he went out he yelled out
15 something. I don't know what he yelled. He panicked. Jimmy.

16 Q. Jimmy yelled something out?

17 A. Yeah, he turned around and went down through this door right here.

18 Q. This is Jimmy Dietz?

19 A. Yes.

20 Q. Where was Joe at this time when Jimmy did this?

21 A. As he was going out and Jimmy went out he stopped.

22 Q. Joe stopped?

23 A. Yes, faced him. I thought he was going to run after him but he just,
24 he had his gun here, seemed like he had his legs kind of spread out a little bit, kind
25 of bent at the knees, I thought he was going to shoot but Jimmy, he really got out 26 of there fast so he didn't follow him, he just went out.

Q. You thought he was going to shoot Jimmy?

A. I don't know, I thought he was going to shoot him.

Q. Jimmy?

A. Jimmy, yes, but he didn't.

(R.T. 2/20/91, 166-67 (emphasis added).)

Notably, the State never called Jimmy Dietz as a witness at trial. Mr. Dietz never testified he thought he would be shot. Moreover, the Arizona Supreme Court has held that pointing a gun at a person to quiet him does not fall within this factor. Id. at 1174 (citing State v. Jeffers, 661 P.2d 1105, 1130 (Ariz. 1983)). At most, that was what happened here. Jimmy Dietz had yelled.

Finally, the person who grappled with Mr. Wood, Donald Dietz, did not testify he thought he was in any significant danger. When he grappled with Mr. Wood, he testified that Mr. Wood merely “threw me aside.” (R.T. 2/20/91, 183.)

This is not a new claim, as Respondents assert. The claim in the habeas petition specifically mentions that the Arizona Supreme Court relied on Officer Sueme’s testimony. (ECF No. 24 at 130.) It also asserts that impeaching the witnesses, including Officer Sueme, would have led to a different sentence. (ECF No. 24 at 136 (“The Ninth Circuit has noted: “We can think of no error more prejudicial than one that is the precipitating cause of an erroneous death sentence.” Thompson v. Calderon, 120 F.3d 1045, 1053 (9th Cir. 1997)). See also ECF No. 32 at 147 (“In habeas, petitioner addresses this failure to impeach the state’s witnesses as to its impact at both trial and sentencing.”).) Finally, the averments of this claim are incorporated into claim X.C.3.b. which also challenges the death sentence. (ECF No. 24 at 142.)

Given that the Arizona Supreme Court recognized the merits of Mr.

1 Wood's argument on appeal and that it relied heavily on Officer Sueme's
2 testimony, this claim is substantial, i.e., at a minimum, it has some merit.

3 3. Appellate Counsel's Conflict of Interest.

4 It is beyond dispute that appellate counsel labored under a conflict of 5 interest in this case. The Arizona Supreme Court ordered him off the case. In this 6 claim, all Mr. Wood needs to identify is an actual conflict, i.e., an adverse effect.
7 He has done so. Mickens v. Taylor, 535 U.S. 162, 174-75 (2002); Cuyler v.
8 Sullivan, 446 U.S. 335, 348-49 (1980).

9 In error, Respondents contend that Mr. Wood did not raise any appellate 10 issues that appellate counsel should have raised. To the contrary, in his Motion 11 (and his habeas petition), Mr. Wood asserted that appellate counsel failed to 12 pursue that Ms. Dietz was pursuing a covert relationship with Mr. Wood before 13 the homicides, i.e., he did not argue her duplicity. (ECF No. 116 at 25.) That is,
14 appellate counsel did not seek to discredit the State's story that she was trying to 15 distance herself from Mr. Wood which the State used as motive for the homicides.
16 Respondents initially note this pursuing-a-covert-relationship argument but do not 17 – and cannot -- explain how this is not an appellate argument that appellate
18 counsel failed to make. (ECF No. 122 at 11-12.)

19 Mr. Wood did not consent to counsel's conflict. Respondents are wrong
20 when they contend otherwise. Mr. Wood wrote a letter dated March 25, 1992
21 expressly stating he did not waive the conflict. He told Mr. Baker Sipe, "Please 22 note that I do not wish to waive the conflict of interest issue created by your 23 employment with the Pima County Legal Defender's Office." (ECF No. 25, Exh.
24 15.)

25 Respondents acknowledge that the Ninth Circuit has held that Martinez
26 applies to ineffective assistance of appellate counsel. Nguyen v. Curry, 763 F.3d
27 1287 (9th Cir. 2013). (ECF No. 122 at 11.) Claim XI is one of ineffectiveness.
28

1 (ECR No. 24 at 148 (“Appellate Counsel was Ineffective for Failing to Withdraw .
2 . . . when his Office Possessed a Conflict of Interest”))

3 Contrary to Respondents’ contention, Mr. Wood is presenting all of Claim
4 XI in this Motion, demonstrating the number of deficiencies in Mr. Baker Sipe’s
5 conflicted performance.

6 4. Failure to Investigate, Prepare and Present Mitigating
7 Evidence.

8 Respondents do not contest that trial counsel performed deficiently at 9 sentencing. While they assert that Mr. Wood has cited no authority for the 10 proposition that he is entitled to funding for investigation and experts in his capital 11 habeas proceeding they do not dispute that the cases he cited stand for the 12 proposition that proper resources should be provided so that defendants can file
13 appropriate appeals. Griffin v. Illinois, 351 U.S. 12 (1955), Douglas v. California, 14 372 U.S. 353, 355 (1963), and Evitts v. Lucey, 469 U.S. 387, 405 (1985), stand for 15 the proposition that defendants should get the resources to appropriately conduct 16 their cases. Respondents do nothing to distinguish them. Here, there can be no 17 doubt that Dr. Marc Walters’ affidavit states a strong case for the provision of 18 resources for a neuropsychological evaluation. (ECF No. 25, Exh. 7.) Mr. Wood,
19 in a capital case, should have been provided with the proper resources to litigate
20 this habeas. For years, he was not provided such resources despite numerous 21 requests and this Court’s agreement that Mr. Wood was diligent.

22 For the reasons stated supra at 3, Mr. Wood intends to file expert reports on 23 Monday, July 21, to further support this claim. As noted in Mr. Wood’s Motion, 24 Dkt. 116 at 4, the experts were only recently able to evaluate Mr. Wood. Due to 25 the need to bring this claim to the Court’s attention under the exigent
26 circumstances, Mr. Wood was unable to append those reports to the Motion.
27 However he fully expects to file the reports as a supplement as they become 28

1 available, or in any case, no later than noon on Monday, July 21.

2 B. Every Phelps Factor Favors Granting the 60(b) Motion.

3 1. The Supervening Change of Law is Remarkable.

4 Respondents agree and the Ninth Circuit has held that Martinez is 5 remarkable. Respondents also agree this factor favors Mr. Wood. They have no
6 explanation, however, for why an admittedly “remarkable” change of law favors
7 Mr. Wood only “minimally.”

8 2. Mr. Wood is Bringing this Motion Diligently.

9 Incredibly, Respondents think Mr. Wood should have pursued a Martinez
10 argument before Martinez was law. (ECF No. 122 at 6.) The Ninth Circuit has 11 roundly rejected this argument.

12
13 We make clear that we do not fault Lopez for failing to raise his PCR 14 counsel’s ineffectiveness before the district court or before us in his original
15 federal habeas proceedings. We agree with Lopez that imposing such a 16 penalty would have the perverse effect of encouraging federal habeas 17 lawyers to raise every conceivable (and not so conceivable) challenge – even those challenges squarely foreclosed by binding circuit and Supreme Court precedent. We do not believe that Gonzalez intended such an effect.

18 Lopez v. Ryan, 678 F.3d 1131, 1136 (9th Cir. 2012); Barnett v. Roper, 941 F.
19 Supp. 2d 1099, 1119 (E.D. Mo. 2013) (same). In any event, unlike Lopez, who 20 the Ninth Circuit held should have raised Martinez in his petition for certiorari, 21 Mr. Wood did raise Martinez before that Court.

22
23 Perhaps as a consequence, Respondents concede this factor “has little 24 weight in either direction.” (ECF No. 122 at 6.)

25 As stated in the Motion, Mr. Wood did seek a remand pursuant to Martinez
26 from the Ninth Circuit. Respondents incorrectly state that Mr. Wood did not 27 identify any claims that were subject to the remand. (See Ninth Cir. ECF No. 74 28 at 13-15 (identifying ineffectiveness at sentencing and demonstrating claim was

1 substantial because the Ninth Circuit granted COA on it)).

2 3. Finality.

3 Respondents fail to acknowledge the competing interests in finality.
4 Understandably, they assert the victims' interests in finality. However, they fail to 5 acknowledge the irreversible finality of death in a case where important claims
6 remain undecided.

7 4. The Time Between Denial of Certiorari and the Rule 60(b)
8 Motion.

9 Respondents acknowledge that this factor could weigh in Mr. Wood's
10 favor. (ECF No. 122 at 7.)

11 5. Degree of Connection with Martinez.

12 Mr. Wood's 60(b) Motion relies extensively on Martinez. By way of 13 illustration, Respondents have briefed Martinez extensively. They acknowledge 14 one of the claims, the Officer Sueme claim, fits within the framework. Although 15 they don't admit it in this section of their Response, elsewhere they appear to 16 admit that the claim about appellate counsel's conflict of interest is the same as an 17 ineffective assistance of appellate counsel claim that the Ninth Circuit recognizes 18 is legitimately subject to Martinez. Nguyen, supra. And, while they assert that 19 the claim the trial court erred in not granting the neurological neuromapping study
20 is not subject to Martinez, they fail to acknowledge how closely that parallels a 21 claim alleging the ineffective assistance of appellate counsel. Finally, they have 22 not mentioned the claim that trial counsel was ineffective for failing to adequately 23 represent Mr. Wood at sentencing. That claim also relies on Martinez because 24 PCR counsel did not conduct a mitigation investigation.

25 6. Comity.

26 Respondents fail to acknowledge that the Ninth Circuit's discussion in 27
28

1 Phelps demonstrates that this factor favors Mr. Wood. Phelps v. Alameida, 569
2 F.3d 1120, 1139 (9th Cir. 2009). While Respondents cite Lopez v. Ryan in 3 support of their view of this factor, they do not mention that in Lopez the Court
4 ultimately decided not to rest its decisions on the six Phelps factors, but instead
5 assessed the underlying claim. Lopez, 678 F.3d at 1137.

6 Conclusion

7 For the reasons stated in the Motion for Relief from Judgment and for those 8 stated in this Reply, Mr. Wood requests that the Court grant the Motion. In the 9 alternative, Mr. Wood requests that the Court hold a hearing to determine whether 10 Mr. Wood has demonstrated cause in support of this Motion.

11 Respectfully submitted this 19th day of July 2014.
