agency's factual findings, applying the new standards governing adverse credibility determinations created by the REAL ID Act, Shrestha v. Holder, 590 F.3d 1034, 1039 (9th Cir. 2010). We deny the petition.

The BIA found Chen not credible for several reasons, including concerns with Chen's demeanor, inconsistencies within Chen's testimony about her entry into the United States, and an inconsistency between her testimony and asylum application regarding whether authorities summoned her after they released her from detention. In light of these findings, substantial evidence supports the agency's adverse credibility determination. See id. at 1040-44 (adverse credibility determination was reasonable under the Real ID Act's "totality of the circumstances").
