Submitted November 5, 2012**

* This disposition is not appropriate for publication and is not precedent except as provided by 9th Cir. R. 36-3.

** The panel unanimously concludes this case is suitable for decision without oral argument. Fed. R. App. P. 34(a)(2).

1. Sufficient evidence, which included evidence that Defendant had pleaded nolo contendere to felony charges in California court, supported the district court's finding that the government proved both allegations. United States v. Verduzco, 330 F.3d 1182, 1185–86 (9th Cir. 2003).

2. The district court neither abused its discretion nor imposed an unreasonable sentence when it imposed a within-Guidelines sentence. See generally United States v. Carty, 520 F.3d 984, 991–93 (9th Cir. 2008) (en banc). The district court properly considered the factors listed in 18 U.S.C. § 3583(e) and did not rely on an impermissible factor as a primary basis for its sentence. United States v. Miquel, 444 F.3d 1173, 1181–83 (9th Cir. 2006).
