reimbursement of the costs incurred in the preparation of his 28 U.S.C. § 2255 petition. The CJA authorizes reimbursement of costs for pro se petitioners seeking habeas relief only where the district court determines that the interests of justice “would have required the furnishing of [CJA] representation.” See Guide to Judiciary Policy, Volume 7, Part A, § 310.10.30. Here, the district court previously determined that Fabricant did not meet the standard for CJA representation in his section 2255 proceeding. See 18 U.S.C. § 3006A(a)(2)(B) (section 2255 petitioner may be appointed CJA representation where the court “determines that the interests of justice so require”); see also Sanchez v. United States, 50 F.3d 1448, 1456 (9th Cir. 1995) (“[T]here is no constitutional right to counsel at a collateral, post-conviction section 2255 proceeding.”). Therefore, the court correctly determined that nothing in the CJA allows for Fabricant to receive the requested reimbursement.

Fabricant’s May 2, 2016, request is denied.
