determined a deficiency, and imposed an accuracy-related penalty under I.R.C. § 6662. The Tax Court sustained the deficiency and the penalty. We have jurisdiction over Fish’s appeal of the Tax Court judgment under I.R.C. § 7482(a)(1) and affirm.

The only issue on appeal is whether Fish may deduct unrelated business taxable income (“UBTI”) losses sustained by two partnerships held in an IRA from his personal taxable income.¹ Although IRAs are generally tax-exempt, they are “subject to the taxes imposed by section 511” on UBTI of organizations in which they invest. I.R.C. § 408(e)(1); see I.R.C. § 511. The Tax Code provides that UBTI losses may be carried forward or backward to deduct against gains within an IRA. See I.R.C. § 512(b)(6); see also Treas. Reg. § 1.512(b)–(1)(e)(1) (“The net operating loss deduction provided in section 172 shall be allowed in computing unrelated business taxable income.”). But, the Code does not provide for the pass-through of UBTI losses to an IRA beneficiary’s personal tax return. See I.R.C. §§ 511–13. We therefore affirm the judgment of the Tax Court.

AFFIRMED.
